PREFACE

The fundamental insight—that Christian Science is a Science—brings with it crucial implications for how Christian Science can be most fruitfully approached. Whereas religion draws on sentiment, belief, and ritual observance, a science requires an ordered, systematic education with inquiry as its basis. Such a logical method of investigation opens the field for anyone who is willing to study the subject in a step-by-step manner, working from the simplicity of the fundamentals to the fullness of their implications.

This accent on an ordered schooling is fundamental to the Science of Christian Science. Why? The essence of Science lies in its ability to reduce an infinite unknown—namely, God as a whole—to the simplicity of a few fundamental categories. What are these categories?

- 1) The 7 synonymous terms for God—Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love—present the nature of Being.
- 2) The 4-fold calculus—Word, Christ, Christianity, Science—shows the self-operation of Being.
- 3) The 4 levels of Science—Science itself, divine Science, absolute Christian Science, Christian Science—show the dimensions of spiritual consciousness thorough which Being operates and presents itself in life-experience.

Through these few categories, the nature, operation and multidimensional workings of the one Being can be understood, revealing the divine system of Science. As Mrs. Eddy stated:

“Divine metaphysics is now reduced to a system, to a form comprehensible by and adapted to the thought of the age in which we live” (S&H 146:31). MH: Reduction to system.

What is the practical value of learning and understanding this system? The system of the fundamental categories of Being presents the basic tools of Christian Science, for all scientific work—be it study and research, text-interpretation, or demonstration and practice—builds on an understanding of these categories.

“This system enables the learner to demonstrate the divine Principle on which Jesus’ healing was based” (S&H 147:1).

The system of Science provides the foundation for all understanding and demonstration, establishing in us a divine standpoint and consciousness.

To this end, study and research in the Science of Christian Science is devoted wholly to understanding the few fundamental categories, focusing on such questions as:

- How are the capitalized terms defined divinely (rather than in a humanly subjective way)?
- What scientific methods enable us to discover their divine definition?
- How do the capitalized terms blend and interrelate with each other, not only to correct counterfeit concepts, but also to form a spiritual structure?

- How do these spiritual structures manifest themselves through symbols, e.g., through the text of the Textbook (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy) or through the more abstract symbol of the Model of Being (The Chart)?
- How do the spiritual structures enable us to discern the spiritual laws of Being?

The information and diagrams in this Study Aid have evolved over years in the ongoing endeavor to answer these questions through Science and a spiritually scientific understanding of the Bible and the Christian Science textbook. Experience has shown that visual aids, especially in the form of charts or diagrams, are highly supportive of a more structured understanding of the subject. Unlike prose, charts and diagrams are uniquely adapted presenting—with maximum simplicity—a whole structure of relationships. They thereby convey the core of the subject, providing a basis for much elaboration and individual inspiration. For this reason, I have brought together, in this book, those few diagrams which are most adapted to explaining the system of Christian Science—though this collection is by no means exhaustive.

On each page of this Study Aid are references showing where, in the many books and recordings, the subject is explained in depth. In this way, the study aid can be of great assistance to individual home-study. One finds a line of ordered investigation of the subject through which each student can progress self-reliantly in the study of the system of Christian Science.

Because this Study Aid mainly contains diagrams and not the explanation that goes along with them, it should only be used in conjunction with my books and summer school recordings. It is not intended to stand as a self-contained presentation of the subject.

COLOR SCHEMES

Below are the color schemes used by Doorly, Brook, Kappeler, and KI USA. Although the colors used for the 7 synonyms is randomly chosen (you may select any color scheme for your own notes), the colors for the 4-fold operation of Being and 4 levels of Science are derived from the colors selected for Principle, Life, Truth, and Love. Please note this when devising your own color scheme.

DEFINITIONS of scientific terms

See also: The Pure Science of Christian Science, John W. Doorly, pp. 91–93.

calculus

A process of reasoning by the use of symbols (Webster).

Calculus of operations: A systematic method of treating problems by operating upon (seeing the relationship among) symbols of operation (Webster).

vs. combinatorics: random combining.

category

One of the underlying forms to which any fact known by experience must conform; specifically defined divisions in a system of classification (Webster).

A class, division, genus, family, or type with which distinctions are made among things for conceptual analysis and classification (Peter A. Angeles: Dictionary of Philosophy).

Any basic idea, concept, notion, or principle fundamental to a system of philosophy; an ultimate conceptional form by which knowledge is made possible, providing the foundation for all meaning (ibid.)

A system of categories is constituted of the pure concepts or principles that provide the necessary structure for understanding. Nothing is intelligible unless put into the framework of these categories. Our understanding of things is formed by the categories. And things themselves are formed by the forces acting in nature which operate according to these categories (ibid.).

cybernetics

Kybernetes (Gk.): 'steersman,' 'pilot,' 'controller,' 'governor.'

The study of systems that are self-regulating, self-controlling, and self-operating through a feedback mechanism which exercises adaptive control.

dimensionalism

The concept that one identity, when translated to different levels or standpoints of consciousness, can appear in different forms, while at the same time preserving its one, original identity (see A Study Aid for the Science of Christian Science, page 104).

A unified physical, psychological, or symbolic configuration having properties that cannot be derived from its parts (American Heritage Dictionary).

The basic idea is that the parts of a shape only have meaning by the fact that they belong to a whole, i.e., a shape cannot be split up into its elements without losing the meaning which it possess as a whole. A form is more than the sum-total of its elements (Francois, Charles (editor), International Encyclopedia of Cybernetics and Systems, KG. Saur, Munich, Germany, 1997).

holism

The view that an integrated whole has a reality independent of and greater than the sum of its parts (Webster).

The thesis that wholes, or some wholes, are more than the sums of their parts in the sense that the wholes in question have characteristics that cannot be explained in terms of the properties and relations to one another of their constituents (Harper Dictionary of Modern Thought).

holistic explanation: 1. Explaining phenomena in terms of the functions (purposes, properties, activities) of a whole (form, totality, unity) that is the guiding principle of its parts. 2. Explaining the activity of the parts of a whole in terms of the functions of that whole (Angeles, Peter A., Dictionary of Philosophy, Harper Collins, NY, 1981).

interpretation

root: inter = between pretari = to show, explain, point out (Century Dictionary)

a) unscientific meaning:

1. To explain what is inexplicit.
 - to explain what is unintelligible
 - explanation of what is not immediately plain or explicit (Webster)
 - to interpret the hidden meaning of a parable (Random House)
2. Individually subjective.
 - to understand and appreciate in the light of individual belief, judgment, interest, or circumstance (Webster)
 - to perform or render according to one's understanding or sensibility (Random House)
3. Translation.
 - translation from one language into another (Webster)
4. To interpret by representation.
 - to apprehend and represent by means of art, e.g., to show by illustrative representation (Webster)

b) scientific meaning:

1. Explanation through general principles.
 - explanation of actions, events, or statements by pointing out inner relationships ... or by relating particulars to general principles (Webster)
 - a matter of accentuation according to the context or frame of reference defined by the structure
 - "knowing this first that no prophecy of the scriptures is of only private interpretation. For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man: by holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost" (II Peter 1:20, 21)
 - To leave "to mortals' interpretation ... to identify the meaning is susceptible of abuse owing to one's ignorance.... The only safety ... must lie in confining (the interpretation) to generalities and not specialties" (Oakes, Richard F., (editor), Essays and other Footprints, of Mary Baker Eddy, Rustica Press, South Africa, 1959, p. 63)

vs. interpolate: To alter or corrupt by inserting new or foreign matter; especially to change, as a book or a text, by inserting matter that is new or foreign to the purpose of the author (Webster).

order

Regular arrangement; any methodical or established succession or harmonious relation; method; system; A condition in which everything is so arranged as to play its proper part; as, “order is heaven’s first law”—Alexander Pope (Webster).

Sequence, disposition; the fixed arrangement formed in the existing constitution of things; a natural, moral or spiritual system in which things proceed to definite laws (Oxford).

The sequence or arrangement of things or events, series, succession; a fixed or definite plan, system or law of arrangement; (rhetoric) the placing of words in such a manner as to contribute . . . to the clear illustration of the subject (Webster).

paradigm

A world view or model of understanding and consciousness.

A universally recognized scientific achievement that for a time provides model problems and solutions to a community of practitioners (Thomas Kuhn, The Structure of Scientific Revolution).

Some accepted examples of actual scientific practice — examples which include law, theory, application, and instrumentation together — which provide models from which spring particularly coherent traditions of scientific research (ibid.).

science

Knowledge of a single fact, not known as related to any other, or of many facts not known as having any mutual relations or as comprehended under any general law, does not reach the meaning of science: science is knowledge reduced to law and embodied in a system (Funk & Wagnalls Dictionary).

A branch of study which is concerned either with a connected body of demonstrated truths or with observed facts systematically classified and more or less colligated by being brought under general laws, and which includes trustworthy methods for the discovery of new truths within its own domain (Oxford Dictionary).

“Divinely defined, Science is the atmosphere of God; humanly construed, and according to Webster, it is ‘knowledge, duly arranged and referred to general truths and principles on which it is founded, and from which it is derived.’ I employ this awe-filled word in both a divine and human sense” (No. 9:25).

structure

Root: structura (Latin) = to arrange, to fit together, ordering.

The interrelationships of parts as dominated by the general character of the whole (Webster).

Structures appear wherever elements combine into a meaningful whole whose arrangements follow definite laws (Webster).

A structure is the sum-total of relationships which maintains the communication among the various parts of a whole (Amar).

structuralism

- A method of procedure which transforms every problem into a structural problem (Amar).
- In structuralism, an object itself and its various constituents are seen as points of intersection of multitudinous systems of reference (ibid.).
- Structuralism is a mode of thought; structuralism constitutes essentially a method. By method [is meant] any set of rules or regulations which describes and prescribes the operations to be performed upon any matter with the purpose of ordering it and understanding its workings (Michael Lane, Introduction to Structuralism).
- A structure is a system of transformations. Inasmuch as it is a system and not a mere collection of elements and their properties, these transformations involve laws: the structure is preserved for enriched by the interplay of its transformation laws, which never yield results external to the system nor employ elements that are external to it. In short, the notion of structure is comprised of three key ideas: the idea of wholeness, the idea of transformation, and the idea of self-regulation (Jean Piaget, Structuralism).

The additional benefit accruing to a number of systems should they coalesce to form a larger system; the concept reflects the classical idea that the whole is greater than the sum of its parts. Synergy is formally studied as property of systems by cybernetics (Harper Dictionary of Modern Thought).

synonymous

By synonymous words we usually understand words that coincide or nearly coincide in some part of their meaning, and may, hence, within certain limits be used interchangeably, while outside of these limits they may differ very greatly in meaning and use. It is the office of a work on synonyms to point out these correspondences and differences, that language may have the flexibility that comes from freedom of selection within the common limits, with the perspicuity and precision that result from exact choice of the fittest word to express each shade of meaning outside of the common limits. To consider synonymous words identical is fatal to accuracy; to forget that they are similar, to some extent equivalent and sometimes interchangeable, is destructive of freedom and variety (Funk & Wagnalls).

Thus, synonymous terms: (a) coincide in some part of their meaning and are in this context — in this certain limit — freely interchangeable; yet also (b) have clearly distinguishable differences and are, therefore, not freely interchangeable outside of context (a).

vs. *equinym*s: Words identical or completely equivalent in meaning (many linguists maintain that no such words exist, for, in the economy of language, why would there be two rather than one word, if indeed there were no perceivable difference?).

system

A regularly interacting or interdependent group of items forming a unified whole (Webster).

An assemblage of things unified into a consistent whole by a regular inter-relationship (interaction, interdependence, interconnection) of its parts (Angeles, Peter A., Dictionary of Philosophy, Harper Collins, NY, 1981).

An assemblage of things working in a coherent order according to some rational or intelligible principle, plan or method (ibid.).

The principle or method of operation by which the consistent and coherent order of the whole is achieved and/or explained (ibid.).

NOTES:

PART II

The Divine System of Reference

THE DIVINE SYSTEM OF REFERENCE

Science: The key of Science lies in its ability to reduce the infinite One to simplicity:

- a) to a few, simple, fundamental yet comprehensive categories
- b) that interrelate and operate with each other on one Principle to form dynamic and coherent structures
- c) that underlie all being and solve all questions of existence.

Through the tool of Science, we are able to understand God in its system and structure. Science evolves in us a divinely structured consciousness, until the structure of our consciousness reflects and is one with the structure of Being.

A NOTE ON COLOR CODING: Many students find it helpful to color-code the tones of the synonyms in their notes. There is no significance to the colors we have selected for each synonym above (the spectrum in a rainbow). Feel free to use this color scheme, or any other color scheme you wish, if you feel it will aid you in your study. The selection of color for category II and III (the 4-fold operation and 4 levels) do have significance, however, as they reflect the tones of the synonyms from which they are derived (Principle, Life, Truth, Love).

STRUCTURE

Definition:

- Structure involves the interrelationships of parts as dominated by the general character of the whole (Webster).
- Structures appear whenever elements combine into a meaningful whole, whose arrangements follow definite laws (Wieser).

ATTITUDE

structural

- keeps the whole in view
- considers structure, relationships within and governed by the whole
- always has a new perspective
- center: the whole
- the whole has its own solution

atomistic

- narrow minded
- engulfed in details, pedantic
- routine, repetitive
- center: personal “I”
- meeting our own human and material desires

THE 7 SYNONYMOUS TERMS FOR GOD

Mind, Spirit, Soul

Principle

Life, Truth, Love

The Nature of Being

“Question.—What is God?

“Answer.—God is incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love.

“Question.—Are these terms synonymous?

“Answer.—They are. They refer to one absolute God. They are also intended to express the nature, essence, and wholeness of Deity” (S&H 465: 8–14).

In our study of Science, it is most fruitful to begin with the divinely inspired definition of God as Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love. To understand the importance and place value of these synonyms each synonym must be clearly differentiated from the others. This means that each one of the 7 synonyms for God must be defined through its individual characteristic nature—through its characteristic ideas. So each synonym for God can be defined through the ideas that characterize it specifically and differentiate it from the other synonyms.

Once we undertake a study of the individual nature of each synonym, we discover that the synonyms for God occur in a specific contexts that are not freely interchangeable. Unfortunately, the belief still persists that because each of the synonyms stands for God, they must be freely interchangeable. But if this were so, we could ask: Why have seven terms, if one would do? Why complicate things, if it can all be so simple? The short answer is: Most students of Christian Science are not familiar with the meaning of the term “synonym,” or with the synonymy-principle that underlies the language of the Christian Science textbook.¹ In order to understand Christian Science in its Science, one must undertake a thorough examination of the 7 synonyms for God. The diagrams and tables in this section, Category I, will show the importance of the 7 synonymous terms for God in understanding Science, the Bible, and the nature of Being itself.

¹ It was on this fundamental question of the spiritually scientific meaning of the 7 synonymous terms for God that John Doorly was excommunicated from the Christian Science Church organization in 1946. For more on this topic, see John W. Doorly, A Statement and Max Kappeler, Christian Government—Its Scientific Evolution.

THE PRISM AND LENS OF SCIENCE

An Explanation of Mary Baker Eddy's Statements (Mis. 194:13–18)

“Science is the prism of Truth, which divides its rays and brings out the hues of deity.”
 (Ret. 35:13–14)

“The lens of Science
 magnifies the divine
 power to human sight;
 and we then see the
 allness of Spirit,
 therefore the nothingness of matter.”
 (’01 12:22–24)

“The rays of infinite Truth, when gathered into the focus of ideas, bring light instantaneously...”
 (S&H 504:23-24)

“Delusion, sin, disease, and death arise from the false testimony of material sense, which, from a supposed standpoint outside the focal distance of infinite Spirit, presents an inverted image of Mind and substance with everything turned upside down.”
 (S&H 301:24–29)

RULES FOR STUDYING THE 7 SYNONYMOUS TERMS FOR GOD

1. The answer to the question: “How is the synonym characterized in this sentence?” must always name a characteristic of the synonym. It must convey something about the nature of the synonym itself and not, for example, man’s attitude towards a synonym.

For example, S&H 143:26: “Mind is the grand creator...” Here Mind is characterized as the creator.

Be sure to make a list of your findings.

2. As much as possible, try to answer with the letter of the text. Do not get sidetracked on developing long metaphysical arguments or expositions that are not in the simplicity of the reference itself.
3. Do not give your humanly subjective interpretation—“What the text says to me,” or “how the text inspires me.” The issue is: “What is the text telling us about the synonym?”—not our personal views.
4. Not every sentence with a synonym in it defines the synonym’s meaning.

For example, S&H 256:18: “...What is infinite Mind or divine Love?” This reference indicates no specific characteristic of either synonym.

5. Grammatically, a double negative statement can be put into the positive.

For example, S&H 1:10: “Thoughts unspoken are not unknown to the divine Mind.” In other words: Mind knows (all).

6. When you first begin this work, list only the very clear, conclusive findings; do not list those findings which are questionable.
7. Be careful in listing natural or biblical symbols such as “light,” “sword,” “warfare,” etc. Fundamentally, we should only list abstract terms which most clearly state the nature of the synonym.
8. Make a special list for the root counterfeits of every synonym.
9. Also, for now, omit combinations of two or more synonyms.

For example: Principle, Love; or Life, Truth, Love, etc.

10. Caution: Synonyms are often used in combination with ideas characterizing other synonyms to offset a counterfeit belief. In such cases, the ideas used are not intrinsically characteristic of the synonym with which they appear. For a discussion of this special use of synonyms, see Max Kappeler, Complete Compendium for the Study of Christian Science, Appendix 3 “The Study of Synonyms,” p. 258.
11. In blendings, the theme stated in a sentence determines which synonym must be used. We must ask: What is the theme presented in the text to be dealt with through the use of the synonym?
12. Because the synonyms all refer to God, there are ideas which are characteristic of all synonyms. Having a common referent—God—the synonyms have certain common characteristics among them. These shared characteristics should not be listed as uniquely characterizing any one synonym.
- For example: “divine” and “infinite” apply to all synonyms.
13. Continue your research over time. When this study is first undertaken, the findings will be only an approximation. Each succeeding research effort will weed out inaccuracies, clarifying and refining our understanding of the meaning of each synonym as it is characterized in the Textbook.

The Stages of Culturing Spiritual Consciousness

1. Concept-building:

Getting the concepts clear:

- a) in what they mean through text-analysis.
- b) as defined through their relationships.

What we do: Think through the concepts to establish the perfect concept, or “idea.”

2. Tonality-building:

Seeing all the ideas of a synonym tightly interwoven so as to form one overall tone of a synonym, including all ideas.

What we do: Ponder the ideas together to establish the tone of the synonym itself, embracing all ideas.

3. Consciousness-building:

“Thinking about” the synonym melts into a pure consciousness of the synonyms — “thinking from” the synonyms in divinely differentiated consciousness; the divinely objective becomes humanly subjective.

What we do: Mother the synonyms in consciousness.

4. Being-building:

Consciousness determines being; the consciousness of the 7 synonyms for God becomes our only being.

Mortal Consciousness

1. Mortal mind is the basis of mortal consciousness.
2. Mortal mind brings forth all disharmony.
3. Different forms of mortal consciousness:
 - individual beliefs
 - collective beliefs
 - universal beliefs
 - conscious and unconscious beliefs
 - archetypal beliefs
4. Mortal consciousness is not personal.
5. In mortal consciousness, the greater controls the lesser:
 - majority beliefs govern minority beliefs
 - the stronger beliefs govern the weaker
 - faith in medicine and in the doctor governs
 - belief in truth is the first step
 - in the long run, a belief in truth is not enough
 - scientific understanding governs all beliefs
6. Mortal consciousness is the counterfeit of divine Mind.
7. Mortal consciousness is nothing.

The Seven Days of Creation

An overall view

How the nature of God,
revealed through the seven days of creation,
translates itself to our seeking attitude.

Synonym	Symbol	The nature of God	Our approach to God
Mind	light	Intelligence, creative power	Open thought, willingness to learn without human preconceptions
Spirit	firmament	The onliness of spiritual reality, separating the real from the unreal and bringing understanding	Turning toward Spirit and away from materiality; valuing the spiritual above all else
Soul	dry land, seed within itself	The definiteness of spiritual identity, which names and defines all	Being humble and willing to let Soul name and define all things rightly
Principle	sun, moon, stars, to give light	The divine system of Principle governing the universe; scientific metaphysics demonstrating spiritual power.	Having a scientific and divinely principled attitude; being honest and consistently obedient to the spiritual
Life	teeming of fish and fowl	Fullness, abundance, multiplication, exaltation	Willingness to live by the Life-source by laying down false concepts of life
Truth	every living creature: animals and man	Spiritual consciousness, spiritual manhood, dominion	Letting spiritual consciousness have dominion in our life; working from the whole through its Science and structure
Love	creation finished, rest	Fulfillment, peace, the perfection of completely integrated being	Accepting and acknowledging the present perfection of being; resting in God's plan of salvation

Overview of “Genesis” (S&H Chapter XV) in Light of the 7 Synonymous Terms¹

	Days of Creation (1st Record – Part I)	Adam-Story (2nd Record – Part II)	1000-Year Periods (Part III)
Mind	1. light—intelligence, creative power	1. mist—ignorance	1. Adam-record of creation, Adam to Enoch—awakening (c. 4000–3000 BC)
Spirit	2. firmament—onliness of spiritual reality, separates real from unreal, understanding	2. Adam formed of dust and breath, 2 trees—duality, impurity	2. Noah—turning away from material beliefs, purity, understanding (c. 3000–2000 BC)
Soul	3. dry land, seed within itself—definiteness of spiritual identity, which defines all things rightly	3. Adam in garden (body), names every creature, no helpmeet—corporeal identity, false identification	3. Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, Moses, Joshua, Judges—going the way from sense to Soul (c. 2000–1000 BC)
Principle	4. sun, moon, stars—Principle’s system governing the universe; scientific metaphysics demonstrating spiritual power	4. deep sleep of Adam, Eve made from his rib, the misinterpretation of the serpent—mesmerism, division, atomism	4. Samuel, kings, prophets—true government through prophecy; Principle’s system interpreting itself and governing the universe (c. 1000 BC–1 AD)
Life	5. teeming, abundant fish and fowl (soaring in the firmament)—fullness, multiplication, exaltation of spiritual life	5. serpent tempts Eve, who eats from tree of good and evil; nakedness—demoralization, downfall, lack	5. Jesus, the apostles, Paul, the spreading of Christianity, Revelation—laying down a mortal sense of life for newness of Life as Spirit (c. 1–1000 AD)
Truth	6. every living creature: animals and man—spiritual consciousness, spiritual manhood and dominion	6. Eve cursed, Adam cursed to till the ground, Cain kills Abel—mortal manhood, error self-destroyed	6. pioneering scientific consciousness, understanding being through scientific methods (vs. blind faith) (c. 1000–2000 AD)
Love	7. creation finished, rest—fulfillment, peace, the perfection of integrated being	7. Cain flees from God’s presence and dwells in Nod—error excluded as nothingness	7. reign of divine Science, fulfillment of the Bible’s design, bringing in the millennium (2000 AD onwards)

Soul “...that the birth will be natural and safe.”

Christ: the power of the idea to eliminate error (idea)

Principle “Though gathering new energy, this idea cannot injure its useful surroundings in the travail of spiritual birth.”

Life “A spiritual idea has not a single element of error, and this truth removes properly whatever is offensive.”

Christianity: the bigness of an idea (idea in the synonym for God)

Truth “The new idea, conceived and born of Truth and Love, is clad in white garments. Its beginning will be meek, its growth sturdy, and its maturity undecaying.”

Science: the synonym for God alone is Being (there is only the synonym for God)

Love “When this new birth takes place, the Christian Science infant is born of the Spirit, born of God, and can cause the mother no more suffering. By this we know that Truth is here and has fulfilled its perfect work.”

“ANIMAL MAGNETISM – UNMASKED”

(Development of the subject through the various revisions of Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy)

Miscellaneous Writings, pp. 222:29–5; Retrospection and Introspection, pp. 37:21–38:26, by Mary Baker Eddy

1 st Edition (1875) MIND	No special chapter. The subject was treated in the chapter “Healing the Sick” (16 pages). Accent lies on observation, investigation, inquiring, gaining insight into the subject of mesmerism.
2 nd Edition (1878) SPIRIT	Title of chapter: Mesmerism: (15 pages) Accent is on distinguishing between metaphysics and mesmerism, between “mind” and “Divine mind”.
3 rd Edition SOUL	Title of chapter: “Demonology” (46 pages). Accent is on the malicious abuse of mesmerism, on the modus operandi of malicious malpractice. Now uses “Mind” capitalized. Basis of malpractice is animal nature.
6 th Edition (1883) PRINCIPLE	Title of chapter: “Demonology” (12 pages). Accent is on impersonalizing animal magnetism.
16 th Edition (1886) LIFE	Title of chapter: “Animal Magnetism” (13 pages). Accent is on dragon’s warfare against the woman, animal magnetism warring with the divine idea. Without a knowledge of animal magnetism, error continues and increases. 1886–91 Department on “Animal Magnetism” in Journal 1887 “Ways that are vain: (Miscellany , by Mary Baker Eddy, pp. 210–213)—was not put into Prose Works by Mrs. Eddy. 1889 “Malicious Animal Magnetism” (Christian Science Journal , February). 1890 “A Card” (Christian Science Journal , August).
50 th Edition (1891) TRUTH	Title of chapter: “Animal Magnetism” (7 pages) Text similar to final edition. Dropped all of those passages referring to the struggle and warfare. Accent is on “doing right” which excludes animal magnetism. Evil is no power, no reality, only a belief—belief has not one quality of Truth. There is no transference of mortal thought and willpower. 1899 “What Our Leader Says” (Miscellany , by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 210). “Keep your mind filled with Truth and Love.”
226 th Edition (1902) LOVE	Title of chapter “Animal Magnetism” (7 pages) Accent is on the nothingness of animal magnetism <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ evil is a suppositional lie ▪ the Allness of God, good, is the answer to animal magnetism. 1910 Title “Animal Magnetism Uncovered” 1910 Title “Animal Magnetism Unmasked” (a few months later)

John Doorly's method of treatment

1. The practitioner begins his treatment by putting the whole problem, including all the suggestions, behind him.
2. The practitioner turns to the infinite Mind.
3. The true identity of what is called a problem appears.
4. The true idea uncovers the governing error.
5. The specific error is compensated by the fullness of the specific truth.
6. The divine idea is omnipotent in the realm of Truth and in the realm of human belief.
7. Every Christian Science treatment blesses.

Category II

The fourfold operational sense of Being: Word, Christ, Christianity, Science

The Word-order

When John Doorly undertook his meticulous research of the synonyms for God in 1938/39, he followed the sequence of Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love as given on page 465 of the Textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy. These seven synonyms define the nature, essence and wholeness of God. In the course of further study it was seen that this order of the seven synonyms for God is not a casual one, that they are not arranged in an arbitrary way. Quite the reverse. It is the only order possible if the Word of God or the Logos is to be defined. There are 5,040 possibilities of arranging all the seven synonyms in sequence, but Mary Baker Eddy could put them in only one order when the purpose of the order is to bring out the aspect of the creative Word of God. This Word-order shows the spiritual flow from the creative Mind up to its fulfillment in Love, thus symbolizing also the unchanging order of the seven days of creation.

The Christ-order

Though the discovery of the meaning of the Word-order and its far-reaching implications for any creative activity was overwhelming, an honest investigation of the synonyms for God could not overlook the fact that there are other orders of the seven synonyms in the Textbook. For instance, in “scientific translation of immortal Mind” on page 115 of “Science and Health” we find the order of divine Principle, Life, Truth, Love, Soul, Spirit, Mind defining the Christ in its office of translating God to the point of idea. As this order illustrates a different purpose from that of the Word, the synonyms for God are arranged in a different order. Again we become aware that in a structural concept it is not the facts (The synonyms per se) which are super-important but rather the relationships, the order, which exists between the facts. The office of the Christ is to translate God, the divine Principle which is Life, Truth, and Love, through Soul and Spirit to the point of manifesting God as perfect idea in Mind. Whenever the argument comes up in our consciousness that God does not come to a specific situation, we can counteract this argument of the anti-Christ by the understanding that the self-operative Principle which is the all-impelling Life, the ever-effective Truth and the ever-saving Love exchanges through Soul the false testimony of the material senses, thereby cleansing every situation through the onliness and purity of Spirit, so that only that which is of the nature of idea is manifested as the presence of the All-Mind. You can just feel the terrific power of this translation-order, sweeping away all that would obstruct the divine manifestation.

The Christianity-order

Again, on page 587 of “Science and Health” the term God is described in a different order, to bring out the Christianity sense. Here the order is Principle; Mind; Soul; Spirit; Life; Truth;

Love, depicting Principle, God's reflection as Principle's universe. The focus is on idea and this order answers the question: How big is a spiritual idea? It is always an idea of Principle in the universe of Mind, fully identified with this Principle through Soul-sense, thereby reflecting in Spirit all other idea, thus being father (Life), son (Truth), and mother (Love) to the whole universe. Here the order serves to establish the full-reflection of God's ideas.

The Science-order

These three orders are the only ones in which all the seven synonymous terms appear together in the Textbook. John Doorly naturally felt that there should be a fourth, for Science, because the holy city has four sides, which Mrs. Eddy interpreted as Word, Christ, Christianity, and Science. Praying about it, he could see that Being is not linear, but structural, so that the Word-order, when seen structurally, is founded on Principle, the middle term of the seven synonyms. Principle is based on the divine nature of Mind, Spirit, Soul, and demonstrated in its essence as Life, Truth, and Love. This reminded him of the symbol of the seven-branched candlestick. The seven lamps are not connected with one another in a linear sequential way but related through structure. This is very typical of Science: linear sequence, when understood in its isness becomes structural being.

Therefore, if you look at the Word-order of Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love, not as linear arrangement but from the center, the shaft (Principle), you get a structural understanding of the synonyms for God. Next to Principle, are Soul and Life, then Spirit and Truth, and finally Mind and Love, connected in pairs, all resting on the central shaft of Principle.

The Four Bible Teachings

	Word
as Word:	7 days of creation ▪ the order of creative thought
as Christ:	7 statements of the Commandments ▪ the demands made on the thinker
as Christianity:	7 Beatitudes ▪ the seeker’s reward for a spiritual attitude
as Science:	7 statements of the Lord’s Prayer ▪ the fundamental facts of being

Mind

	Bible teaching	spiritual meaning
Word as Word	first day: Genesis 1:3–5 “And God said, Let there be light: and there was light.” (Genesis 1:3)	is always saying to the seeking thought: Let there be light, intelligence, wisdom.
Word as Christ	first Commandment: “And God spake all these words, saying , I am the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.” (Exodus 20:1,2)	this intelligence leads out of the beliefs of mortal mind.
Word as Christianity	first Beatitude: “Blessed are the poor in spirit: for their’s is the kingdom of heaven.” (Matthew 5:3)	and promises the kingdom of heaven, the kingdom of divine ideas, to all who cultivate this seeking consciousness.
Word as Science	first stanza of the “Lord’s Prayer”: “Our Father which art in heaven, Our Father-Mother God, all-harmonious. ” (S&H 16:26–27)	until they realize that they have forever existed as idea in the all-harmonious parent Mind.

Spirit

Bible teaching	spiritual meaning
Word as Word second day: Genesis 1:6–8 “And God said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters.” (Genesis 1:6)	separates good from evil, illusions from ideas
Word as Christ second Commandment: “Thou shalt have no other gods before me.” (Exodus 20:3)	and demands acknowledgment of the one and only idea, which is reflected in ideas
Word as Christianity second Beatitude: “Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.” (Matthew 5:4)	comforts with the substance of reality those who separate themselves from long- cherished beliefs
Word as Science second stanza of the “Lord’s Prayer”: “Hallowed be thy name. Adorable One.” (S&H 16:28–29)	and brings the realization that Spirit is the one and only reality

Soul

Bible teaching	spiritual meaning
Word as Word	third day: Genesis 1:9–13 “And God said, Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land appear, and it was so.” (Genesis 1:9)	brings out the identity of every idea
Word as Christ	third Commandment: “Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, nor any likeness of any thing that is in the heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth.” (Exodus 20:4)	and demands that we should not set up any false concepts or models
Word as Christianity	third Beatitude: “Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.” (Matthew 5:5)	but meekly identify ourselves with the one Ego
Word as Science	third stanza of the “Lord’s Prayer”: “Thy kingdom come. Thy kingdom is come; Thou art ever-present.” (S&H 16:30–31)	and thereby recognize that the kingdom of God is within us and ever-present

Principle

Bible teaching		spiritual meaning
Word as Word	fourth day: Genesis 1:14–9 “And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of heaven to divide the day from the night; and let them be for signs, and for seasons and for days, and years:” (Genesis 1:14)	governs all identities harmoniously and includes them in a coherent system
Word as Christ	fourth Commandment: “And shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.” (Exodus 20:6)	obedience to Principle brings demonstration
Word as Christianity	fourth Beatitude: “Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be fulfilled.” (Matthew 5:6)	so that loyalty and consecration are rewarded
Word as Science	fourth stanza of the “Lord’s Prayer”: “Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Enable us to know, — as in heaven so on earth, — God is omnipotent, supreme. ” (S&H 171–3)	and we recognize that divine Principle is omnipotent both in the absolute (heaven) and the relative (earth)

Life

	Bible teaching	spiritual meaning
Word as Word	fifth day: Genesis 1:20–23 “And God said, “Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life, and fowl that may fly above the earth in the open firmament of heaven.” (Genesis 1:20)	reveals itself through exalted ideas which soar above corporeality and confinement and are available in abundance
Word as Christ	fifth Commandment: “Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.” (Exodus 20:7)	these exalted ideas forever express God’s nature anew and are not empty concepts
Word as Christianity	fifth Beatitude: “Blessed are the merciful; for they shall obtain mercy.” (Matthew 5:7)	they illumine creation with the true scientific concept only
Word as Science	fifth stanza of the “Lord’s Prayer”: “Give us this day our daily bread; Give us grace for today; feed the famished affections; ” (S&H 17:4–5)	and thus become the bread of Life which sustains man’s being

Truth

Bible teaching	spiritual meaning
Word as Word sixth day: Genesis 1:24–31 “And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over every living thing that creepeth upon the earth.” (Genesis 1:26)	is divine consciousness, including all ideas (man), and has dominion over everything
Word as Christ sixth Commandment: “Remember the sabbath day to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work.” (Exodus 20:8,9)	these ideas must be understood and realized, until all false beliefs fade
Word as Christianity sixth Beatitude: “Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.” (Matthew 5:8)	and the pure consciousness of God is seen
Word as Science sixth stanza of the “Lord’s Prayer”: “And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. And Love is reflected in love,” (S&H 17:6–7)	man then knows himself as guiltless (sinless) as the pure reflection of God

Love

Bible teaching		spiritual meaning
Word as Word	seventh day: Genesis 2:1, 2 “And on the seventh day God ended his word which he had made; and he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made.” (Genesis 2:2)	rests in fulfillment and completion
Word as Christ	seventh Commandment: “But the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates: For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day; wherefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day and hallowed it.” (Exodus 20:10, 11)	all problems are solved
Word as Christianity	seventh Beatitude: “Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.” (Matthew 5:9)	the peace of the children of God is attained
Word as Science	seventh of Lord’s Prayer: “And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: (S&H 17:8–11)	salvation is an inescapable fact

Soul + Life (1) numerals of infinity Word	unchanging identities of being (ideas of the seven synonyms for God)	being can be identified only through spiritual understanding (spiritual sense)	as we understand spiritually, so are we	mortal beliefs produce mortal existence
Spirit + Truth (2) infinite calculus (divine computations) Christ	every idea reflects being in a different, specific and new form	Truth is a fact-ordering activity (seeing order in chaos)	through the restructuring of facts, we make new discoveries	calculating humanly leads to false conclusions (combinatorics)
Mind + Love (3) 4th dimension (matrix) Christianity	each idea has its own perfection (its right place within the whole)	perfection operates according to law (miracle) (the impossible happens)	through taking a holistic view, we find better and higher answers, which bring both an individual and collective blessing	atomistic thinking is structure-blind, and blind to the future
Principle (4) omni-action Science	all that is going on is the omni-action of Principle	Principle operates through Science and system as the all-harmony of being	we furnish true, holistic proof	enigmatical, unscientific thinking, mysticism

Category III

THE 4 LEVELS OF SCIENCE:

Science itself
divine Science
absolute Christian Science
Christian Science

The dimensional aspect of Being is the four levels of Science itself, divine Science, absolute Christian Science, and Christian Science. This development of defining the seven synonymous terms for God and the four sides of the holy city as Word, Christ, Christianity, and Science has brought us up to the time of World War II. Though it seemed that much had been achieved, there was still something missing. Quite a few paradoxical questions remained unsolved, and a fundamental key was needed to solve them. They were the paradoxes that every sincere thinker encounters when studying the Textbook. To take two simple examples:

- Christian Science teaches on the one hand that God knows no sickness and on the other hand that God heals sickness;
- that there is no evil and yet that we have to overcome evil.

For those thinking along the lines of classical logic, such seeming paradoxes or contradictions are encountered again and again in the Textbook. But in fact Mrs. Eddy does not contradict herself, if the Textbook is read with the transclassical logic which she was already using a century before the other sciences and the world awoke to it. As she wrote the Textbook in a structural way and not according to one-dimensional linear reasoning, her teaching can only be understood through a multi-dimensional logic.

John Doorly realized that the subject of the Textbook has various levels of spiritual altitudes and that this is brought out by the various levels of Science. He showed that any subject has a different aspect according to whether it is treated from the point of view of Science itself, from divine Science, from absolute Christian Science or from Christian Science. Therefore the student must approach the Christian Science textbook with a consciousness that is cultured in thinking dimensionally with a dimensional logic, and then the seeming paradoxes can be solved even rationally.²

From Metaphysics to Science

The ordered steps to finding our oneness with Being (Resolving the “personal I” into the “I Am”) ascending way

Metaphysics: the contemplation of ideas

1. All is mental (cogito, ergo sum)
2. The mental can be good or evil
3. Thinking in terms of ideas
4. Thinking in terms of the synonyms for God

Science: the contemplation of the infinite One, including all ideas

5. Only the synonyms for God in us can be one with synonym of God
6. Life, Truth, and Love is the only “I” of us
7. The synonyms of God are the only “I” or Ego
8. The “I” is “I AM”

descending way

Science:

8. I Am that I Am
7. This I Am is the “I am” of all
6. This I Am is infinitely individualized as “individual I am”
5. This I AM has no other “I Am,” no “personal I”

Science including metaphysics:

4. This I AM is “the thinker” of us
3. This I AM gives us ideas/makes God’s thoughts and “my” thoughts identical
2. This I AM gives only good thoughts
1. This I AM makes us “the thought of” God and therefore, “I am” (cogitor, ergo sum)

The Dimensional Structuring of the Ideas of the Seven Synonyms for God

On the basis of the levels of Science, the ideas of the seven synonyms for God can be dimensionally ordered, showing how the synonyms themselves appear on each level. Considering the levels in the descending way, we can distinguish definite categories:

Science itself:

- I. What is the synonym as itself? i.e., What does the synonym know about itself as itself, as the synonym as such, or as a whole?

divine Science

- II. What is the synonym in its own realm? Here the focus is on those ideas that express the universal realm of the synonym, its whole sphere of self-expression, all that the synonym includes within its own domain.

absolute Christian Science

- III. What is the synonym in relation to its creation? The focus is no longer on the universal oneness of Principle and idea, but on the ideas themselves and how ideas express the infinite relationships within Being.

Christian Science

- IV. In what form does the synonym come to the human? When the divine touches the human, it translates itself in such a way that it is reflected in the human, showing the coincidence of the divine and the human.
- V. What does the synonym do in the realm of its suppositional opposite? When the divine has an impact on the human (IV), whatever is unlike God must simultaneously yield. The healing, redeeming process takes place, as something is corrected in the human.
- VI. What higher attitude does the synonym bring forth in the human? When that which is unlike God in us gradually yields to the divine (V), something better and higher is brought about in the human; we manifest a higher humanhood through an attitude and consciousness that reflects the divine.
- VII. How does the synonym appear when it is not understood? When the entire process of translation (I-VI) is resisted through a lack of understanding, the synonym appears to us in the form of its suppositional opposite. The counterfeit-concept is therefore always the synonym itself, but in misunderstood form.

PART III

The Laws of Being

WHAT ARE THE DIVINE LAWS?³

Now, we want to proceed and touch on the great question of law.

We have seen that structure demands structural laws. Therefore, we should ask ourselves, what are the divine laws? Mrs. Eddy uses the term law in the Textbook and in her writings quite often. There is great emphasis on the fact that there are laws. But when you go through all the references and ask yourself what these laws are, you may have difficulty in finding out what these laws are.

Usually it is just stated that there are laws, that there are laws of God, but what they are, Mrs. Eddy does not state so explicitly. We are a bit at sea until we begin to investigate the Textbook in a structured way. Then the laws just jump out of the Textbook, one by one. If a textbook of mathematics says that mathematics has laws and that these laws are eternal, and these laws are good, would we know the laws? Could we calculate? We could not. We would have to know exactly what the elements are of such laws. You would have to be able to define what the elements are, and what the relationships are within a definite law. Only then can we have a clear concept of a law.

This is very difficult to see in the first investigation of the Textbook. Since my university years, I was constantly asking myself, what are those laws of which Mrs. Eddy speaks in the Textbook? One cannot just say there are laws and the laws of God but, nobody knows what the laws of God are. With some few exceptions, Mr. Doorly also did not teach about laws. Actually this question did not arise during his time, and I was very close to Mr. Doorly, especially in the years that were important for the whole development of the idea.

So we can see that, compared to that period of time, even to ask the question about laws was a new paradigm too. It is a question that has always been swept under the carpet. At that time no one was asking: What are the laws? What are these laws of God? Tell me how they are stated. Tell me the elements of each law. Tell me how these laws vary from each other. What is the difference between these laws? These questions were never asked. We have seen that a new paradigm asks new questions. It does not answer the old questions. It asks new questions and, therefore, also has to answer new questions.

For about twenty-five years, I was asking these new questions but did not get a single answer! I did not find any answers until about 1960 when I began to study the Minor Prophets. When I was asking a question about what I felt was an anomaly, I did not sweep it under the carpet. Then I felt it was something that would be very important. From that time on the question of law, and the answers of what laws are, came into focus.

Perhaps you know if you have read my book on the prophetic era, The Minor Prophets in the Light of Christian Science,⁴ that I stated every prophet in the form of a law. There I stated the laws in their very clear-cut elements.

That was such a terrific change that nobody understood my book. They read it in the old paradigm of Bible interpretation. Because Mr. Doorly had interpreted the Bible over a period of years, and published about six thousand pages on Bible interpretation, that left only very little to his students for interpretation. So when I picked up the little remnants that were left from the Old Testament in a few of the Minor Prophets, they all thought that I was now interpreting the rest that was left over from John Doorly. But I did something completely different.

³ Max Kappeler, E-1 — The Structure of Being and its Universal Laws, 39 hours, © 1973, New York, NY

⁴ Max Kappeler, The Minor Prophets in the Light of Christian Science, © 1962

All those who bought my book just felt that it was nice but, it was the old story of interpreting biblical symbolism as metaphysical symbolism.

That was not the purpose of my book. I was thrilled to discover laws for the first time, and to learn how to formulate laws, and how to state laws within a bigger framework of the Christ matrix. That was the beginning of investigating the question of laws more and more.

We must be aware that this is a new paradigm, that it is asking new questions, and that it is answering new questions. But it also demands a completely different approach to the subject.

Laws of Isness (Being) Laws of Process

There are two big categories of laws which we call the laws of “isness,” or of Being, and the laws of processes. You can state a law about something that is, but you also can have laws about something that has a process. These are two big categories.

In Black’s “Law Dictionary,” you will find this definition: “Law is that which is laid down, ordained, or established. A rule or method according to which phenomena or actions coexist.” These would be the “isness” laws. They coexist or follow each other. These would be the laws of process. This is a law that shows how something follows something else, and so on. Whereas the laws of isness just show how phenomena coexist together.

We will examine both categories of laws when we go through the Chart. There we will find laws of isness and we will find laws of process. Webster says that “law is a statement of an order or relation of phenomena ... that, so far as it is known is invariable under the given conditions.”

When we go through those laws, we will have to state the laws in their elements and see that, if we want to apply these laws, we have to adhere to them invariably. We should not try to constantly change them as we are used to doing in religious thinking. They are invariable under the given conditions. For instance, if we are thinking on the level of divine Science, then that is the given condition. We have within that condition, invariable laws. We can find invariable laws for all levels of consciousness.

The Random House “Dictionary of the English Language,” gives another definition, which I feel is one of the best for us. It reads, “The law is a rule, principle or convention regarded as governing the structure or the relationship of an element in the structure of something.” We can see that the law is that which governs the structure. It is a structural law. It is a law that governs the relationship of one element within that whole structure.

Laws: according to Mrs. Eddy⁵

It is interesting to go through the “Concordance”⁶ and look up all the statements Mrs. Eddy makes in “Science and Health,” and in “Prose Works,” on law, and laws. Here are a few quotes to show that she does not actually say very much about it.

If one regards law in relationship to God, which is one of the main characteristics of her writings—we see that she couples law with God—and has four different kinds of relationships, which would be in accordance with the Word, Christ, Christianity and Science.

She says, “God is the lawmaker” (381:151). That would be the Word. In the Christ, she says, God is the “Lawgiver” (Mis. 258:13). He gives the law. In Christianity, she says, “the Lawgiver was the only law of creation” (Mis. 259:14). That is Christianity, the universe, the law of creation. And in Science, she says, “God is ... the only law of being” (Mis. 17).

If you analyze these statements about God and law, you still do not know very much. You only know that God makes laws, and that God gives law, and that the creation of God has laws and that is the law of being. Yet you do not know the first thing about what these laws are. These quotes are not really revealing very much. She even makes that very important statement that God was “a law to Himself” (Mis. 258:13). Perhaps that statement can give us a clue of how to go about finding hidden laws embedded in “Science and Health.”

Even when we ask what the connection is between law, the laws of God and Science—because we had a feeling that law had to do with Science—one does not really get a great measure of information. Mrs. Eddy just says, “Science is the law of God” (My. 347:24). So you get a little bit more information instead of just saying that God is the lawmaker and the lawgiver.

Mrs. Eddy says that the law of God is really Science, and that naturally builds a bridge, to the realization that the whole realm of Science is the law of God. But Science is a big field. It consists of system, categories, structures, and so on. But she also says that “Christian Science is the law of God...,” It is not only Science. She continues, saying, “...interpreting and demonstrating the divine Principle and rule of universal harmony” (Rud. 1:2).

The moment Mrs. Eddy combines the law of God with Christian Science, then she means that these laws will be those laws that regulate the relationship of the divine Principle with the demonstration and interpretation of that Principle, bringing out the harmony of being.

Day of Creation	Life: The Creative	Truth: The Factual	Love: The Fulfilled
1 st Day	Let there be light (1:3)	And God divided the light from the darkness (1:4)	And God called the light Day (1:5)
2 nd Day	Let there be a firmament (1:6)	And God made the firmament (1:7)	And God called the firmament Heaven (1:8)
3 rd Day	Let the dry land appear (1:9, 10)	Let the earth bring forth grass, and herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself (1:11)	And the earth brought forth grass, and herb, and the tree yielding fruit (1:12, 13)
4 th Day	Let there be lights ... for signs and for seasons and for days, and years ... to give light on the earth (1:14, 15)	God made two great lights ... to rule the day and the night (1:16)	God set them in the firmament of the heaven ... to rule (1:17–19)
5 th Day	Let the waters bring forth abundantly the moving creature that hath life (1:20)	God created great whales, and every living creature that moveth ... and every winged fowl (1:21)	God said, be fruitful and multiply (1:22, 23)
6 th Day	Let the earth bring forth the living creature (1:24, 25)	Let us make man in our image, after our likeness. God created man in His own image (1:26, 27)	Be fruitful, and multiply ... and have dominion (1:28–31)
7 th Day (as Truth) (as Love)	Heavens... (2:1) On the seventh day God ended... (2:2)	And earth... (2:1) ...His work which He had made... (2:2)	and all the hosts of them were finished (2:1) ...And he rested ... from all His work (2:2)

St. Matthew

The law of interdependence in the Word illustrated through the layout of St. Matthew

The seven stages of unfoldment (Christian Science) from the standpoint of Life, Truth, and Love (absolute Christian Science)

- MIND Life, Truth, and Love manifest the divine Parent-Mind and thus bring to light the true idea of man (Matt. 1:1–2:23).
- Life: Under the impulsion of Life, the creative Mind manifests uninterruptedly its own idea (Matt. 1:1–17).
- the genealogy of Jesus (“...begat ... begat”)
- Truth: The idea which is brought forth by the impulsion of Life is the idea of Truth: the saving Christ-idea (Matt. 1:18–25).
- Mary’s conception of Jesus (= Savior)
- Love: Love protects the idea from the assaults of mortal mind (Matt. 2:1–23).
- the wise men—escape to Egypt—
Herod—return to Nazareth
- SPIRIT Life, Truth, and Love unfold, through the baptism of Spirit, the idea of man purified from all mortal beliefs (Matt. 3:1–17).
- Life: The inspiration and exaltation of Life arouses in man the desire for the things of Spirit (Matt. 3:1–9).
- the baptism of repentance
- Truth: The factuality of Truth resolves all that is wrong in man and lets only that which is true unfold in him (Matt. 3:10–11).
- the baptism of the Holy Ghost
- Love: The perfection of Love brings forth in an ordered way the purely spiritual identity of man (Matt.3:12–17).
- the baptism of Spirit
- SOUL Life, Truth, and Love impel the true identification of man (Matt. 4:1–22).
- Life: Life identifies itself in man as his only provider and maintainer (Matt. 4:1–7).
- 1st temptation (to turn stones into bread)
 - 2nd temptation (pinnacle of the temple:
“cast thyself down”)

St. Matthew (cont.)

- Truth: The Christ-Truth in man rejects sin and affirms the divine identity of man (Matt. 4:8–11).
– 3rd temptation (“Get thee hence, Satan”)
- Love: Love makes each one become conscious of their universal identity (Matt. 4:12–22).
– Jesus calls the disciples and makes them fishers of men
- PRINCIPLE Life, Truth, and Love reveal the interpretation of the Science of man (the Sermon on the Mount) (Matt. 4:23–7:29).
- Life: Life impels the divine Principle to interpret itself to man in an ordered way as a healing Science (Matt. 4:23–5:9).
– Jesus healed all manner of disease
– The Beatitudes (“blessed are...”)
- Truth: Truth demands “Christ-Science” instead of “right thinking” in order to establish harmony in man (Matt. 5:10–48).
– Jesus’ teaching versus human opinions
- Love: Love fulfills the Science of man through the Science of Life and the Science of the one Being (Matt. 6:1–7:29).
– Jesus teaches the Science of Life, a new style of life, in contrast to a hypocritical life (Matt. 6:1–7:12).
– Jesus teaches the Science of Being (Matt. 7:13–29)
- LIFE Life, Truth, and Love demonstrate the fullness of life (Matt. 8:1–14:36).
- Life: The impulsion of Life demonstrates the fullness of life individually (Matt. 8:1–9:8).
– individual healings through Life-power
- Truth: The acknowledgment and affirmation of the Christ-Truth in man has a regenerating and resurrecting effect (Matt. 9:9–9:38).
– individual experiences in which the Christ-consciousness in the patient is appealed to, and thus a new sense of life is affirmed Love: Love bestows a full measure of life, which fulfills itself in every detail (Matt. 10:1–14:36).
– Jesus sends out his twelve apostles
– seven parables of the kingdom of heaven(a fulfilled state)
– feeding of the 5000

St. Matthew (cont.)

TRUTH Life, Truth, and Love establish true manhood as a divine calculus of ideas (Matt. 15:1–25:46).

Life: The impulsion of Life establishes the calculus of ideas in place of human calculations and opinions (Matt. 15:1–25:46).

- the commandments of God versus the tradition of the elders
- feeding of 4000
- to know the signs of the times
- the leaven of the Pharisees
- Who is the Son of man?

Truth: The Christ-Truth (the divine calculus) has dominion over the human (the mortal calculus) and thus translates the human back into the divine (Matt. 16:21–19:15).

- “Get thee behind me, Satan.”
- mount of transfiguration.
- Who is the greatest? — “whoever shall humble himself.”
- to save that which was lost
- to forgive seventy times seven

Love: In the all-embracing Love, the divine calculus resolves the mortal calculus completely (Matt. 19:16–25:46).

- Being is indivisible and therefore all mortal concepts have to be laid down (Matt. 19:16–20:34).
- the wholeness of the idea (Matt. 21:1–46)
- complete devotion to the Christ-consciousness (Matt. 22:1–23:39)
- the self-destruction and nothingness of error (Matt. 24:1–25:46)

LOVE Life, Truth, and Love bring true manhood to fulfillment; no error can prevent salvation (Matt. 26:1–28:20).

(a) In the face of error

Life: The impulsion of Life enforces the complete disappearance of the mortal concept of man (Matt. 26:1–26:46).

- Bethany—Last Supper—Gethsemane

Truth: The whole gamut of error cannot touch the factuality of the Son of God (Matt. 26:47–27:44).

- Judas’ kiss—Jesus before the high priest—
- the denial by Peter—Pilate—crucifixion

St. Matthew (cont.)

Love: Love fulfills itself in the victory of the Son of God over every error (Matt. 27:45–61).
– darkness—veil of temple rent—earthquake – rocks rent—graves opened

(b) In the oneness of Being

Life: The irrepressible impulsion of Life proves that the life of man is deathless (Matt. 27:62–28:8).

– Jesus’ resurrection.

Truth: The true form of the Son of God is an unchangeable fact (Matt. 28:9–17).

– Jesus reappears to his disciples.

Love: The design of Love is fulfilled: the universality of the Son of God (Matt. 28:18–20).

– “All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth.”

– “I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world.”

The Science of the Bible

Equipped with a scientific, spiritual understanding of the divine system, John Doorly was able with its help to decode the Science of the Bible. Ever since the Bible has been in existence, hundreds of thousands, even millions of attempts have been made to interpret it. The interpretation changes according to the individual's subjective approach and inspiration. Are all free to interpret the Bible in any way they like, or is there a fixed Principle behind "the Scriptures, which grow in beauty and consistency from one grand root..." (S&H 341:6)? If there is, then this divine Principle interprets itself through and as the system of divine ideas which is inherent in the Principle itself. Knowing the system spiritually, John Doorly interpreted the Bible as a coherent exposition of the system of divine Principle.

We must therefore see the one super-important point, namely, that Doorly did not give just one more new interpretation of the Bible along side the already existing million ones; he did not give one more interpretation in the same category as all the others. Doorly's interpretation of the Bible is of an entirely new category—an interpretation from the standpoint of the one divine Principle interpreting itself through its own system. Mrs. Eddy supplied the key in the "Key to the Scriptures," namely in the chapters "Genesis" (with its main accent on the seven days of creation, indicating the seven synonyms for God) and "The Apocalypse" (with its main accent of the four sides of the holy city, the fourfold operational sense of Being.)

In investigating the Bible as a whole, Doorly first saw that the entire plan of the bible unfolded in thousand-year periods correlative to the order of the synonyms in the Word-order: Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, leading in the sixth thousand-year period of Christian Science in Truth and to the coming millennium of Love. Also each book of the Bible shows a systematic layout. Some of the books unfold in the order of the seven synonyms as given in the Word-order, the Christ-order, the Christianity-order, or the Science-order; others may present their subject in the fourfold order of Word, Christ, Christianity, and Science, and so on. All this, therefore, shows that what Principle means to interpret is in the first place its own categories, its own structure, and not single incidents or aphorisms, not atomistic truths. This also naturally demands a completely new attitude on the student's part. It is not the interpretation of the parts which is of foremost interest, but the structure of the whole. The Principle of Christian Science is fundamentally holistic; the parts serve through their interrelations to bring out the whole.⁷

The structure of the Christian Science Textbook

The second major result that followed from John Doorly's exposition of what constitutes the divine system of Christian Science concerns "Science and Health" as such. In the 1950's it was seen that the Textbook has a very balanced coherent structure, so that it can be understood as a most remarkable exposition of the idea of Christian Science, in which from sentence to sentence, from paragraph to paragraph, from chapter to chapter, there flows a consistent unfoldment of the structure of Christian Science.

⁷ John W. Doorly published 13 books on the spiritual structure of the Bible obtainable through the John Doorly Trust, <http://johndoorlytrust.org/onlinebookstore.htm>.

In reviewing the whole development since 1910, one cannot help feeling that Mrs. Eddy's prophecy has found its fulfillment:

“I foresee and foresay that every advancing epoch of Truth will be characterized by a more spiritual apprehension of the Scriptures, that will show their marked consonance with the textbook . . . Interpreting the Word in the “new tongue,” whereby the sick are healed, naturally evokes new paraphrase from the world of letters.” (Mis. 363:30)⁸

PART IV

Matrices

The Further Scientific Unfoldment to the Matrix Form

excerpt from the book,
When I think of John Doorly ... II, Introduction to the Matrix-Consciousness
Max Kappeler, ©2002

Contemplation of the fourfold order of Science led Doorly's understanding of the Science of Being further and further. The order of Science that includes the Science of Word, Christ, and Christianity is quite natural, because we know that in the one infinite Being every identity of being reflects every other identity. Every side of the Holy City reflects every other side. This results in $4 \times 4 = 16$ aspects. How can each side be defined by the seven synonyms for God? The order of Science symbolized by the candlestick has already provided the answer for the Science side. But what is the arrangement for the orders of Word, Christ, and Christianity? The Word also reflects Word, Christ, Christianity, and Science. The Christ and Christianity also reflect the other sides in a fourfold manner. Thereby, we have a 4×4 description of the four orders of the synonyms. Each of the four orders reflects the fourfold calculus. This raises the question of the transitions within each order that represent the steps from Word to Christ, from Christ to Christianity, and from Christianity to Science. Expressed somewhat differently: What is the essence of Word, Christ, Christianity, and Science in each of the synonym-orders? Doorly spent three years studying this question (1943-1945). He had to rely entirely on his excellent spiritual scientific sense that had become sharpened through his successful spiritual practice.

The question he asked was the following: How do Word, Christ, Christianity, and Science reflect each other in the Word-order, in the Christ-order, in the Christianity-order, and in the Science-order? At first, Doorly had no texts that could have provided an answer. Therefore, he had to listen to the divine Being, that is, to the spiritual meaning of the four synonym-orders. He spent hours and hours in the attempt to sense spiritually the form that was crystallizing. The answer did not come immediately or at once, but gradually, through spiritually directed attempts, so he was always ready to change his findings. Through his letters and those of his assistant at the time, Peggy M. Brook, I was able to follow his spiritual wrestling in achieving the correct result. In his book, "The Pure Science of Christian Science" (first edition 1946), he published the results of his research. At his last summer school in Oxford (1949), he made the last change based on the Gospel of Mark (see the second edition of 1949).

He presented his results to his students in the form of a table or chart (see Table I, p. 15). A mathematician listening to one of his lectures informed him that in scientific circles this type of table was called a "matrix." From then on, his students incorrectly referred to it as the "Doorly-Matrix." This is a wrong designation, for the matrix does not deal with John Doorly, but rather with the immortal one Being. It is much more the "matrix of immortality" according to the Textbook (205:5).

How is the term "matrix" defined? The word is derived from Latin and means "womb" or "topsoil." Webster defines "matrix" as: "A place or enveloping element within which something originates, takes form, or develops." This rather biologically based definition is very informative for us. Our matrix is an enclosing element that is also unfolded by the all-embracing One until it takes on its complete form. The mathematical definition then provides the rules about how a matrix is built up. It is determined by columns (verticals) and rows or lines (horizontal). Each of the columns has a common denominator. The same applies to the rows. Where the columns and rows meet, there are points of intersection, each of which yields a new value. They are called the matrix elements.⁹

How are the $4 \times 4 = 16$ points of intersection explained by John Doorly?

⁹ For more detailed explanations of “matrix,” see Max Kappeler, The Science of the Oneness of Being in the Christian Science Textbook (Seattle: Kappeler Institute Publishing USA, 1983), pp. 255–256; Max Kappeler, The Structure of the Christian Science Textbook—Our Way of Life, Vol. II: Interpretation of the Structure (Seattle: Kappeler Institute Publishing USA, 2002); and Max Kappeler, The Minor Prophets in the Light of Christian Science (Seattle: Kappeler Institute Publishing USA, 1962), p. 17–21.

Matrix (plural: matrixes or matrices) matrix = womb, place of origin, cradle (= ‘the place in which anything is nurtured in its earlier stage’, Oxford Dictionary) source, cause; grid, chessboard pattern

definitions:

The womb. A place or enveloping element within which something originates, takes form, or develops ... That which gives form, origin, or foundation to something enclosed or embedded in it (Webster).

A matrix is a schematic model or order. It has columns and rows or lines, which are constructed according to definite rules. The essential requirement is that all the elements in a column or in a row possess a common characteristic (Z. Dienes and E. Golding: Mathematisches Denken und logische Spiele, Herder 1966).

A rectangular array with systematic entries (Prof. Luft).

A matrix is an arrangement of values in lines and columns (Prof. Muller-Markus: Wo die Welt nochals beginnt, p. 279).

matrix elements:

A matrix is a rectangular arrangement of elements.

An element is a primary component, in the sense that it is not possible to divide an element and at the same time retain the properties which are relevant to the associative context. Elements form the constituent parts of magnitudes; their interrelation constitutes the structure of a magnitude. Matrices afford a more accessible general view of the functional interconnections of elements within a system (Lexikon der Planung und Oranisation, 1968).

purpose:

The word ‘matrix’ (denotes) any ability, habit, or skill, any pattern of ordered behaviour governed by a ‘code’ of fixed rules (Koestler: The Act of Creation).

A matrix is an aid to remembering the succession of operations. It needs few symbols, as each symbol acquires a special meaning according to its particular box within the grid.

Matrices themselves provide a very powerful condensed language in which complicated mathematical statements can be expressed simply (Evelyn Sharp: The Parent's guide to the New Mathematics).

A matrix is important for categorical, relational and structural thinking (Z. Dienes and E. Golding: Mathematisches Denken und logische Spiele, Herder 1966).

A matrix is a means to the most economic representation (Mathematik-Duden für Lehrer, Mannheim 1969).

A purely conceptual, not an observable, construct, superseding the last traces of physical detectability (Prof. Müller-Markus).

- aids structure recognition
- acts as a memory-support
- provides a cognizable over-all view
- is a steering mechanism

Mind: God conceives all thoughts (513:17–21)

Spirit: God's thoughts unfold spiritual reality (513:26–514:9)

Soul: God's thoughts are defined through divine qualities (514:10–515:10)

Christ/Christ: The translation of God to man (515:11–517:24)

Truth: Truth translates itself to every idea through reflection (515:11–517:24)

Love: Love fashions all things in glorified quality (516:9–23)

Soul: Soul translates the ideal Truth to the point of ideal man and woman (516:27–517:14)

Spirit: The ideal is reflected in an infinitude of ideas (517:15–24)

Christianity/Christianity: Infinite space is peopled with ideas, all reflecting Life, Truth, and Love (517:25–518:23)

Life: Life multiplies the compound idea man (517:30–31)

Truth: Truth gives man dominion (517:31–518:2–4)

Love: Love makes this dominion universal (518:2–4)

Spirit: In the compound idea man, every idea reflects every other idea (518:13–17)

Soul: All ideas have identity of interest (518:17–19)

Mind: Every idea is the expression of the full manifestation of Mind (518:19–23)

Science/Science: Principle includes all ideas in omniaction (518:24–519:6)

Ideas Dissolve Beliefs (Chapter X, “Science of Being” in Science and Health)

Idea versus belief dissolves	Mind metaphysical basis versus material basis	Spirit spiritual reality versus material reality	Soul limitlessness versus limitations	Principle divine authority versus other authorities	Life immortal Life versus mortal life	Truth immortal consciousness versus mortal consciousness	Love oneness with God versus separation from God
Mind idea opposed to belief	Metaphysics, not matter is our basis	Like produces like; Mind does not produce matter	The divine Mind is unlimited; beliefs are limited	Man is the image of God; a material personality is not this image	Man as idea is immortal; mortals are not this idea	The origin of the real man is Mind; material man is illusive consciousness	Man is the manifestation of Mind, not of matter
Spirit idea is real, belief is unreal	Metaphysics is real; semi-metaphysics is unreal	Spirit is real; matter is unreal	Only the one God is real; there are not gods many	God and man are Principle and idea; they are not physical personalities	Spiritual life is real; material life is unreal	Spiritual man is real; material man is unreal	Man is born of Spirit; any other statement is illusive
Soul idea superior to belief, never “in” something	Metaphysics is above physics	Spirit explains away substance-matter	Soul is supreme over corporeality	The divine Principle is above human theories	Spiritual sense gains a higher level of existence	Spiritual consciousness must replace mortal consciousness	Man can never lose his high estate
Principle only idea has a divine Principle	Metaphysics bases itself on the Science of Mind	Spirit is the cause of substance	The one Ego is the Principle of man	The divine Principle governs the universe	Immortality is gained only through demonstration	A scientific consciousness has its foundation in Principle	Man can only work as Principle works
Life idea is exalted, eternal	Spiritualization of thought leads to eternal life	The substance of Spirit is eternal	Limitlessness is eternal	All that proceeds from Principle is eternal	Deathless life is gained through spiritual progression	Spiritual consciousness lifts us to our true individuality	Life demonstrates the immortality of man
Truth idea destroys false belief	Spiritual sense of truth annuls material truth	Spiritual consciousness annuls pantheistic beliefs	The true concept dispels the belief in limitations	Error yields to Truth	Error must be destroyed hourly	True consciousness dissolves false consciousness	The true forms of existence continue to exist undisturbed by mortal thought forms
Love idea is one with God; belief is nothing	All is the manifestation of Mind; there is no matter	Only reflections of good exist; matter is unknown	The unlimited knows no limitations	Harmony alone reigns; all conflicts are solved	When the last fault is destroyed, being is revealed and mortality is ended	True man exists always in perfection, beyond mortal illusions	Man is God’s man, never a mortal
